Back-to-School Special Edition

As the churches and schools across the five states of the Pacific Union have grappled with how best to respond to the rapidly changing circumstances that surround the coronavirus pandemic, the leadership of the Pacific Union Office of Education has been busy keeping informed about the vastly differing policies and executive orders impacting our various communities, supporting the local conference education departments, and providing counsel and direction for school leadership in whatever way they can. This has given them a firsthand look at how our schools are coping—as well as a glimpse of what may be on the horizon ahead.

Recently, the Office of Education worked with our Communication and All God’s People production team to produce a “back to school” video to share with our teachers—and also with you, our All God’s People viewers. It’s a special report for this week. We’ll be back next week with more stories of faith and providence.

Here’s our back to school video for the 2020-2021 school year! We hope you like it.
